CORRESPONDENCE
The Planning Board received an online inquiry from Amanda Whitworth. She came before the Board to answer her questions about leasing or renting a space in town. She was interested in leasing space in the mill property presently owned by Andrew Lane. The space would be used for the use of dancing artists from the New York and Boston areas. There would be no revenue generated from the property; there would be no customers and no service(s) would be provided. It is a 700 square foot space and there is no intention on the part of Ms. Whitworth to rent the space beyond September. The space has old wooden floors which are ideal for the art of dance. The following concerns were raised:

- Ms. Whitworth was inquiring about obtaining a full site waiver
- There will be no change in the footprint of the property or space
- No parking issues
- The hours of operation would be during daylight hours until just past dinner time
- No more than six people in that space at one time
- There is a collaborative team of 5: a composer; a playwright and her children
- Limited use and the space is not open to the public
- Ms. Whitworth will have to fill out a waiver form application
- Mr. Andrew Lane will need to sign off on a letter of authorization and be notified of steps being taken as Mr. Lane is the owner of the property
- Chief Heath needs to inspect the property
- The space will primarily be used for practice

Edward Adamsky came before the Board as the new owner of the 44 Main Street property located abutting a small part of Memorial Park land (the “Horse Trough”). He explained that the property has 4 apartments in the building; 2 apartments on the second floor, 1 apartment in the basement and 1 apartment on the first floor that he would like to convert to retail space possibly storage and office space. Mr. Adamsky would like to put a lawyer’s office on the first floor and the other half of the first floor would be used for retail space. His plans are to put in a ramp to the first floor door making the building handicapped accessible. He has spoken with Steve Heath, Fire Chief, who has made a few suggestions about the space. Mr. Adamsky is awaiting Mr. Heath’s report. Mr. Adamsky was advised to contact the Town Administrator concerning a code inspection for the property. He raised a concern about where the boundary line is for the 44 Main Street property. He was advised to go to the Town Hall which could give him a history of the 44 Main Street property. He raised a concern about the vegetation near his property and also near the park Horse Trough. He was told to contact the Memorial Park Trustees and the Garden Club concerning the vegetation issue. He raised a question about where the existing sidewalk ends and his property begins. It was suggested that he contact Chief Tony Randall, a surveyor familiar with town property, Samyn and D’Elia could find out the information or he could go to the Town Hall and look at existing records concerning the property. The property at 44 Main Street would house a law office dealing with Elder Law and Estate Planning.

The Legislature recently took up the issue of accessory dwelling units attached to single family housing for caregivers. This dwelling is within the single family housing or attached to a single family housing. It is not a separate dwelling but an attached dwelling for independent living for two.

Towns need to review this law. It also gives towns time to make any changes to existing zoning ordinances. Ashland does not need to make any changes as these changes are already reflected in our present zoning ordinances. This law will impact inspections done by Steve Heath. The law is set to take effect in June of 2017.
